COST OF ARMS AID MAY RISE

Temporary Ban Placed On Open-Air Meetings In Tokyo

Steps Are Taken To Forestall Any Tokyo Outbreaks

Scheduled Rallies Barred By Edict; Walkouts Scheduled

By JOHN RICH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, June 2.—Japan's government tonight banned open-air gatherings in downtown Tokyo over the weekend and all American military police in the city were restricted to quarters in readiness for any emergency that may arise from Communist-planned demonstrations.

The U. S. Army's MP's were alerted as the Japanese government, backed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, took drastic measures to forestall outbreaks during the election weekend.

Prohibit Assemblages

A government order prohibited weekend assemblages in the center of tense Tokyo and decreed that any meetings elsewhere in Japan can be held only under the strictest police controls.

The edict also declared Hibiya park off-limits to all Japanese from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. tomorrow, thus barring a rally of 30,000 persons which had been called by the Communist-dominated Auto Workers union.

The action came as hundreds of thousands of Japanese workers and students were being mobilized by Red leaders to launch walkouts and demonstrations in at least seven cities tomorrow on the eve of Sunday's elections to the Diet's upper chamber.

It coincided with the closing

Woman Guilty Jury Decides

Frankie Miller Is Found Guilty In Shooting Of Man

FRANKFORT, Ind., June 2.—(INS)—Raven-haired Frankie Miller, one-time farm girl whose 12-year love affair ended in tragedy, was convicted of manslaughter last night by an all-male Frankfort jury for the shotgun slaying of the "man who done her wrong".

The jury deliberated almost four hours before returning the verdict which carries a penalty of two to 21 years in prison. Sentence was deferred until Monday.

The shapely divorcee sobbed when the verdict was announced and collapsed in the arms of her sister, Mrs. Dickie James.

The prosecution did not request the death penalty. Three other possible verdicts were murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree—both carrying life sentences—or acquittal.

The state claimed that Frankie, 29, shot and killed Leonard Holliday, 31, in his apartment last March 19 after she found him with another woman.

May Abandon Attempt To Draft Bill Lowering Taxes

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The fear of a bigger government debt raises a possibility today that the House ways and means committee will abandon its efforts to draft a bill lowering federal taxes this year.

In four months of intensive work the group has tentatively approved tax cuts amounting to one billion, 104 million dollars—mostly in excise levies—and has partly balanced the loss with a plan for 492 million dollars in new revenues.

The spectre of the $600,000,000 still on the red side of the ledger, however, seems to have created a rift in the 25-man committee.

Rep. Carroll (D) Colo., said he doubts that the group will approve a bill "with a $600,000,000 deficit".

This brought a retort from Rep. Jenkins (R)Ohio, his committee

The girl, Mary Regina Kirsch, fell from a discarded water trough which she and her cousin, Monto Kirsch, 9, were using as a boat.

The girl's brother, Timmy, 10, waded into the water from the bank and seized her hand, but he lost his grip and the girl sank in five feet of water.

Death Penalty May Be Decreed

Air Force Sergeant Is Found Guilty Of Rape-Murder

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2. —(INS)—An all-male federal court jury last night bound Air Force Sgt. Lyle T. Buswell guilty of the rape-slaying of an attractive air force WAF and the judge rejected a recommendation sparing him from the gas chamber.

The jury's verdict convicting Buswell on three counts in the indictment included a recommendation against the death penalty on the rape charge but Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman deleted the request for leniency and rebuked the jurors for "confusing phraseology."

Therefore, Buswell may be executed for the strangling of Air

Death Threat Letter Sent To Gen. MacArthur

Suspect Arrested Confesses That He Wrote The Letter

TOKYO, June 2.—(INS)—A letter threatening assassination of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and two Japanese government leaders led to the arrest and questioning today of a Japanese man who confessed he wrote the missive.

The letter, warning that the death threats would be carried out this Sunday, was received at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters where officials said the arrested man is probably a crank.

The suspect, who admitted authorship of the letter under a lie detector test, was kept in the custody of U. S. military police.

MacArthur's intelligence officer said the arrested letter writer, whose name was not announced, is a "bug", but that authorities are continuing to question him on the chance that others may be involved.

What Letter Said

The letter, couched in the most polite Japanese, started off:

"Dear General: You are going to make me a present of your life."

It said the assassination attempt was planned "for the good of the country," but did not specify the means by which it was to be carried out.

Additional precautoins were ordered to protect the allied supreme commander as both American and Japanese officials launched a searching investigation of the assassination plan.

An added guard also was placed around Prime Minister Shigeru

Truman May Make Visit To England And France

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—President Truman today is contemplating a visit to England and France next summer.

White House advisers have urged the president to accept official invitations for himself and his family to visit London and Paris as a new gesture of the bonds between this country and its allies in the "big three" of democracy.

A White House aide close to the president said these invitations have been under consideration, but that up to now the press of his duties has prevented him from accepting.

Particularly Urgent

The invitation from the British government has been a particularly urgent one. The United Kingdom will celebrate a post war festival next year and the British government has expressed the hope that the president and his family will be able to visit London sometime during the year.

The British bid was pointed up

Next Move By Russia May Be In Japan

Diplomatic Officials Convinced That Some Action Is Planned

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Diplomatic officials are convinced today that Russia's next offensive on the Far Eastern front of the cold war will be in Japan.

This thinking is inspired by recent incidents in Japan. It may deeply affect U. S. thinking on the possibility of drafting some sort of peace arrangement with the former enemy nation.

Incidents which occasion concern are:

1. The withdrawal by Moscow of its military mission in Tokyo and its replacement by an entirely new group of personnel.

2. The attack over the Memorial Day holiday on a group of U. S. soldiers by several Japanese Communists.

3. The renewed demand of the Kremlin that Emperor Hirohito be tried as a war criminal on the grounds that he "plotted" the use of germ warfare during the war.

Arouse Suspicion

All these arouse the suspicion that the Cominform is planning, under Moscow's direction, to stimulate internal Communist activity in Japan with a view to overthrowing the government or to soften up resistance if hostilities were to begin.

Acheson Asks Quick Action On Arms Fund

Appears Before Congress To Urge Approval Of Funds

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(INS)—Secretary of State Acheson told Congress today that the cost of arms aid to the North Atlantic area likely will be increased in the near future.

He said the program for arming western Europe probably will rise in cost unless there is a "considerable change in the international climate and the actions of certain powers.'

Asks Fund Approval

Acheson appeared before the Senate foreign relations and armed services committee to urge quick approval of the full $1,222,450,000 which President Truman has asked for the second round of the foreign military assistance program.

Sen. Smith (R) N. J., asked if it could be expected that the cost of arms aid will lessen as time goes on. Acheson replied:

"I don't think anyone can tell you honestly that it will be lowered.

"The most honest answer is that it likely will be increased. We are a long way from having an integrated force for the Atlantic.

"Unless there is a very considerable change in the international climate and the action of certain powers we may have to put more rather than less into the effort in the immediate future."

Trying To Shift

Sen. Knowland (R) Calif., raised the question of whether some countries to which the president proposes sending arms are trying to "shift defense on the budget of the United States."

Acheson replied that some of the countries are trying to increase their military budgets. He said the question was fully discussed at his London conference with Atlantic Pact foreign ministers. He added:

"All of the Atlantic Pact coun-

Soviet Air Force Holding Big Maneuvers In Austria

By MARVIN STONE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

VIENNA, June 2.—Reports reaching Vienna indicated today the Soviet air force is holding its most intensive aerial maneuvers since 1946 in the Russian zone of Austria.

The Russians are known to control at least 12 airfields in their zone, three of them within 15 miles of Vienna.

According to an Austrian government agency which has kept close tabs on Soviet plane "incidents" since the occupation began, the Reds are more active this spring than at any time in the past four years.

One way to gauge Soviet air activity in the closely guarded zone is by enumerating these "incidents" —which include aerial bullets fired into village streets and "buzzings" of farm houses by reckless Russian pilots.

In May, 10 scattered villages reported they were fired upon by Russian aircraft. Several of the incidents took place during night exercises.

This total for May alone is greater than for the number reported during any one year since 1946.

INDIANA, Pa., June 2.—(INS)—Some 2,500 coal miners of the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal company were back at work today end an eight-day walkout.

Eight mines were closed in the dispute over equalization of work.

'Flying Fuzz' Source Sought

PHILALELPHIA, June 2—(INS)—Health authorities in Philadelphia said today they are seeking the source of "flying fuzz" observed in the city and several other points of eastern Pennsylvania.

John L. Hodges, chief of the division of air pollution control, said he was informed last night that the "fuzz" had reached Philadelphia.

Previously, the lightweight substance, resembling dry dandelion pollen, was reported along a 25-mile radius including Bristol, Hulmesville, Doylestown and in Burlington, N. J.

Hodges said:

"This substance is apparently agricultural in character but we have not yet specifically identified it. It is non-poisonous, non-irritating, and nothing to worry about."

The air pollution expert said there was also a theory that the fuzz may have drifted from marsh fires many miles away.

There were no immediate reports of casualties or damage, but the eruption already was threatening the nearby village of Honaunau, sacred to Hawaiian natives as the "city of refuge".

The village lies 15 miles from the resort city of Kona on the island of Hawaii.

NEXT MOVE BY RUSSIA MAY BE IN JAPAN

Tokyo's Communist-led Memorial Day outbreaks admitted today under lie detector tests writing a letter threatening to assassinate Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

They are all expected to influence the minds of John Foster Dulles, Republican advisor to the state department, Defense Secretary Johnson and Gen. Omar Bradley when they visit Tokyo to study the peace problem.

While foreign policy advisors generally feel that a peace treaty is desirable, military officials fear that this would compel a withdrawal of troops from the islands. This the latter do not want to do in the present state of world tension.

Consequently the best that can be expected in any peace treaty will be one that provides for the maintenance of U. S. military bases.

Just how popular this would be in Japan cannot be determined here.

In the normal course of events, it is customary for chiefs of state to reciprocate one another's visits. Mr. Truman has followed this rule with hardly an exception while in the White House.

He has exchanged visits with President Dutra of Brazil, President Aleman of Mexico and the Governor General and Prime Minister of Canada. After the November elections he may go to Chile to return the Washington visit a few weeks ago of President Gonzales-Videla.

The president, with eyes twinkling, dodged all questions regarding a visit to France at his news conference Thursday.

There will apparently be only a small turnover in teachers in the city system, Dr. Frank L. Burton, superintendent, reports. Many of the teachers will be attending summer schools, many will travel and still others will work during the summer, it is reported.

been for the swift response of Andy Marttala, of North Jefferson street, and Bill Myer, of Gardner, their boat might have gone down the rapids with disastrous results.

Aid Men In Boat

The two men were standing on shore, and heard the cries for help of those in the boat. Marttala grabbed the boat with a grappling hook, while Myer carried a rope through the swift running water, and the trio, with the body, was brought safely to shore.

Reno stated that he had been watching a loaf of bread, which someone had thrown into the stream to determine the course of flow of the stream, in the hope of finding a quiet eddy, where the body might have lodged, and went to the spot. He made contact with the body at this point, but it slipped off the hook. A few seconds later, the watchers on shore saw the body, floating just under the surface. Reno took the body in his arms, just as the boat started drifting dangerously close to the rapids.

Some of the members of Mrs. Stone's family were at the scene when the body was recovered, but left immediately for Rochester. The body was taken to the Batchelor Funeral Home at Monaca, to be prepared for burial.

Local Firemen On Job

The men in the boat when the body was recovered, had just relieved New Castle firemen, who have been at the scene aiding in the recovery attempt since Tuesday morning. They were exhausted from their long hard task, and relinquished the oars to the new group. The New Castle firemen were virtually the only ones conducting the search during the day yesterday, and a new crew was on its way to relieve them, when the body was found.

Others who have aided in the recovery attempt were the Ellwood City Fire Department Rescue Squad, who were at the scene Monday evening immediately after the drowning occurred; Slippery Rock Township volunteer firemen; State police, city police, as well as other volunteers from New Castle and the surrounding area where the drowning occurred. Mayor John F. Haven was among those who helped Wednesday.

In order to release as many of his men as possible to aid in the search for the body, Fire Chief Herman F. Steinbrink had been driving one of the trucks at Central station for the past two days.

Force WAF Fairy E. Decker of York, Pa.

The husky, 33-year-old sergeant faces a mandatory life sentence on the second count charging murder during the course of a criminal assault on the woman. Her half-clothed body was found on a lawn at Hamilton Field air base last March 25.

May Get Death Sentence

The guilty verdict on the first count of murder in the second degree carries a penalty of 10 years to life imprisonment.

At the discretion of the judge, Buswell may be sentenced to die in the San Quentin gas chamber for committing rape. An alternate penalty is one year to life prison term.

Sentencing was scheduled for Monday but defense counsel announced a motion for a new trial will be filed before that time.

Buswell admitted during the trial that he strangled the 44-year-old WAF on a "sudden impulse" when she teased him about "another man". He claimed he was on "intimate terms" with the woman and denied that he committed rape.

U. S. Attorney Charles O'Gara told the jury the crime was "a case of lust, not love . . . a case of rape, not rapture". He said Buswell "stalked the women's area" at the air force base "intent on sexual desire".

Johnson's commencement address before the newly-fledged ensigns carried high praise for the success of the unification program. However, the secretary added:

"I am not prepared to say that all differences between the services have been resolved or that none will ever arise again. In fact, toward that kind of unification none of us aspires.

"We appreciate that vigorous men with strong loyalties are bound to disagree on occasion, but we have a right to demand that . . . after adequate discussion they will get together in the national interest. . . ."

the meal Frank Strizzi introduced Louis Augustine, a class member, as the toastmaster of the evening.

Mr. Augustine called upon a member of each class to speak for his fellows and for the blue print class, Art McGaffic spoke. Joseph Mollick spoke for the Saturday class, William Warnock for the advanced class, Richard Hetzenreader for the Saturday advanced class and William Howard for the metallurgy class.

Two officers of the company were present and spoke. Executive Vice President Geoffrey Beard and Production Vice President K. C. Gardner, Jr. Both congratulated the men upon their interest in preparing themselves for more skilled work and said that in the end their studies would pay dividends.

Other Speakers

For the adult education program, Earle W. Cass, director for the New Castle public schools spoke; Paul Haller, representative of the metallurgy division of the Penn State extension course; C. W. Correll, acting plant superintendent; M. C. McClain, machine shop superintendent; John Gallagher, foundry superintendent; school board director Ralph A. Cooper, machine shop general foreman Joseph McKenzie, and personnel director David C. Myler.

The teachers of the classes were Frank Strizzi, William Howard, William Fox and Mark Baatz. All of them bespoke their congratulations to the class members. Certificates were presented by Mr. Strizzi and Mr. Haller.

The adult education classes in the United plant have been increasing in popularity each year. The men attend the classes upon their own time and at night. Through these classes they learn to read blue prints and learn the fundamentals of metallurgy.

Yoshida and Attorney General Kenkichi Ueda, named with MacArthur in the letter as targets of the planned killings.

Authorities continued to question the arrested man and investigated his connections to determine whether he had any confederates. His identity was kept secret as were other details of the affair.

tries were desirous of making as great an effort as they can."

Acheson, testifying at a joint session of the Senate foreign relations and armed services committee, said that if the Atlantic Pact nations "let down or slacken our efforts the result could well be disaster."

The secretary placed greatest emphasis on the need for aid to southeast Asia and Japan.

Global Interests

But he pointed out that the "interests of the United States are global in character" and that "a threat to peace anywhere is a threat to our security."

Acheson declared that every cent of the amount asked by President Truman is needed in the cold war against Communist aggression. He said:

"The future course of events in southeast Asia, in the Philippines, in Korea and in Japan as well as in China proper are of great importance to the security of the United States.

"Our policy is and must be devoted to doing everything within our power to prevent the further spread of Communism. . . .

"The interests of the United States are global in character. A threat to the peace of the world anywhere is a threat to our security.

"Vigorous, intelligent and sustained action on our part is essential to the preservation of our liberty. The program of military aid proposed by the president represents the best judgment of the executive branch at this time as to the measures in which and the extent to which we can provide military assistance effectively to support our objectives.

"Favorable action by the Congress will provide a vital element of support to the long struggle of free peoples to protect themselves from those who would enslave them."

STEPS ARE TAKEN TO FORESTALL ANY TOKYO OUTBREAKS

phases of the trial of eight Japanese on charges of assaulting five uniformed Americans in Tokyo on Memorial Day.

The order prohibiting open-air meetings until Monday was broadcast over the radio to all parts of tension-laden Japan.

It was signed by Kazuo Okazaki, head secretary of the cabinet; National Rural Police Director Noboru Saito and Tokyo Police Chief Eiichi Tanaka.

They issued the order shortly after conferring at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters with the Allied Supreme Commander's Intelligence Chief, Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby.

The ban on open-air meetings until after Sunday's elections was considered part of a counter-offensive against a mounting pressure drive by Communist-directed groups.

One government leader said the Red drive is aimed at creating ill will between Americans and Japanese in order to persuade the United States to pull out of Japan.

Government authorities declared the Communist party can be outlawed but that such an action is not presently contemplated inasmuch as the Reds already operate largely underground.

The meeting between Gen. Willoughby and the three Japanese officials mapped new measures to meet the worsening situation stemming from the rising Communist challenge.

SCOTCH FOURSOMES PLANNED TONIGHT

Was there ever so enticing a day as yesterday? Fair and cool with a soft breeze blowing, it called forth a record number of lady golfers as keen competition waged on the New Castle Country Club green.

The program for the day was to find out who would shine on the odd numbered holes. And satellites were forthcoming as Kathleen Riley took honors for 18 holes, with Mrs. Herbert Ketchum coming in a close second.

With competitors for playing nine holes, Mrs. Thomas Blair led the field with Mrs. Grover Washabaugh, Jr., tying for second place with Mrs. Ed Smith, Jr.

Not to be outdone in glory, Mrs. Edward Miller again sank an approach shot for the fourth this season.

Twilight golf has proved most popular the past month. So, ladies, now is your chance to show the men in your life just what you have been up to these past Thursdays when you avoided your dominant domesticity. Tonight Scotch foursomes will be the order of the evening and a big turnout is expected. Golfing lassies, pack up your golf shoes, grab your spouse and bag of clubs and come out and join the group.

PHILATHEA SOCIETY WITH MRS. WILLSON

Mrs. S. S. Willson, Old Pittsburgh road, received members of the Philathea Missionary society of the Central Presbyterian church at her home home on Thursday evening.

Miss Blanche Bright was devotional leader for the evening. Miss Marjorie McAnlis presented parts of the foreign topic entitled "Leprosy in India" and "University Work in the Philippines". Mrs. George W. Conway presented another chapter of the study book, "Japan Begins Again", in a most instructive manner.

Mrs. Thelma Probst, president of the Shenango Presbyterial, presented a recognition pin to Mrs. Conway who now has a life membership in the national missions. Mrs. Conway is a past president of Shenango Presbyterial.

After a short business meeting, the hostess served delicious refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Mont L. Ailey.

WATSON-McCASKEY BEAUTIFUL RITE

A fashionable wedding gown of lustrous slipper satin was worn by Miss Nancy Levertta Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Watson, Alborn avenue, East New Castle, for the occasion of her marriage to Charles McCaskey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCaskey Sr., of East Main street, New Castle.

Grace Bible Community church in East New Castle was the setting for the beautiful candlelight ceremony on Thursday evening, June 1. Rev. G. W. Fissell officiated, using the double ring service. White spring flowers and greenery decorated the church altar.

The lovely young bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, T. C. Watson. A sweetheart neckline with a delicate edging of nylon, and long sleeves tapering to points over the wrists were attractive highlights of the molded bodice of the bridal costume. The bouffant skirt was cleverly detailed with a double bustle effect and extended into a graceful cathedral train. A fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of mock orange blossoms and seed pearls. The bride wore a rhinestone necklace which the bridegroom had given her and carried a lace handkerchief, a gift of her great-aunt, Mrs. Clara Lytle of Youngstown, O. She also carried out the something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue tradition. Her flowers were a modern colonial bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. James Reed was matron of honor for her cousin, wearing a gown of yellow summer taffeta with puffed sleeves and a rounded neckline. Bridesmaids the Misses Mary Alice Watson, also a cousin, and Miss Ruth Tanner, a close friend, were dressed identically in light green summer taffeta. The attendants carried modern colonial bouquets of yellow and white daisies.

James Reed attended the bridegroom as best man. The ushers were Edward McCowin, cousin of the bride, and William Reed.

Mrs. Ralph Boyd presented a half hour prelude of appropriate nuptial selections and accompanied Earl Hammond, soloist, who sang the traditional wedding songs, "Always," "Because Your Mine," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The home of the bride's parents was the scene of the wedding reception immediately following the ceremony. The colors of the bridal party, green and yellow, predominated in the lovely appointments. Colorful bouquets of sweet peas and daisies centered the table, flanked by blue candles in silver candle holders tied with white ribbon. Pouring were Mrs. Ben Gardner, the bride's grandmother, and Mrs. Clara Lytle, the bride's great-aunt. Aides at the reception were Miss Edna Young, Miss Sally Stivans and Miss Ardith Cochran. The bride's aunt, Mrs. Margaret Nye, cut the cake. About 200 guests were present for the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. McCaskey plan to spend their honeymoon in Washington, D. C., and Virginia, and will return to their newly furnished apartment on Fairlawn avenue.

Mrs. McCaskey is a graduate of Shenango high school and was a student nurse at the Jameson Memorial Hospital School of Nursing for one and a half years. She was recently employed at the Strouss-Hirshberg company. The popular young bride was feted at numerous shower events preceding her marriage. Many lovely gifts received by the young couple are on display at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. McCaskey is a graduate of New Castle high school and served four years with the Armed Forces. At present he is taking a pre-law course at Youngstown college and is employed by the Standard Steel Spring company, this city.

COUNTY GARDEN CLUB HEARS MRS. CALHOUN

Members of the Lawrence County Garden club were graciously received for a luncheon meeting on Thursday at the home of Mrs. James D. Crawford, Wallace avenue.

Pansies and spiraea, attractively arranged in a long container, were a decorative feature of the luncheon table. The new president, Mrs. William Berkstresser poured.

The charming speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Ernest N. Calhoun, vice president of the Federated Garden Clubs of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Calhoun emphasized the importance of garden clubs belonging to the federation, and the service which the federation provides for these clubs. She stressed some of the outstanding reasons why the clubs should belong to the federation. They are: civic beautification, roadside protection, conservation and legislation. The latest data on the growing and arranging of flowers is available for all garden clubs, a free service of the federation. Those interested in joining the federation will be pleased to know that the federation conducts an office at Hornes in Pittsburgh which will send out any new literature which they receive on horticulture and will answer any questions pertaining to the subject. The speaker's informative talk proved most interesting to the club members.

It was announced that on June 19 and 20 the State Federation of Garden clubs will hold a garden clinic at Pennsylvania State College. All members of the federation are welcome to attend.

Mrs. John Elliott, retiring president, thanked the club members for the gift of roses which they had presented to her. Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser reported on the new rose beds which the club provided for the club's community rose garden project at the Jameson Memroial hospital.

Another special feature of the afternoon was the first lesson in flower arranging, conducted by Mrs. John Loudon.

Mrs. Loudon enumerated the basic principles of flower arranging and illustrated her topic with several lovely arrangements of her own creation. Mrs. Loudon also reported on the Garden Council of Lawrence County meeting.

Mrs. W. Russell Allen announced that a flower show would be held at the Central Presbyterian church of Youngstown on June 13 and 14.

The next meeting of the club will be held on July 6 at the home of Mrs. William F. Wheeler, Englewood avenue, with Mrs. Clyde Whittaker as associate hostess. Mrs. John Elliott will discuss the second lesson in flower arranging.

HOSPITAL STAFF MEMBERS HONORED

Two staff members of the obstetrical nursing staff of the Jameson Memorial hospital, Miss Helen Venditto and Miss Margie Maxwell, bride-elects of this month, were guests of honor at pre-nuptial shower party, Thursday evening.

The event, held in a tearoom at New Wilmington, was also a farewell party for Miss Venditto who plans to resign from the Jameson staff and reside in Pittsburgh.

The group enjoyed dinner at a prettily appointed table with places marked for 17 guests. Bouquets of flowers and tapering candles centered the table.

Both guests of honor were presented with luggage as gifts from the obstetrical staff. Mrs. Irene Marttala made the presentation and both responded graciously.

Miss Venditto has been the obstetrical department supervisor for the past three years. She will become the bride of Anthony Miscimarra on Saturday, June 10, and will make her future home in Pittsburgh.

NO APPEASEMENT

It is not surprising that nothing of consequence came out of the conference which Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, had in Washington with President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson.

Indeed Mr. Lie must have been certain in advance that his proposal for admitting Communist China to membership in the UN—as sought by Russia—would not get the approval of the United States.

Some day Red China may be represented in the United Nations but if that turns out to be the fact, it will be on the merits of the case and not simply because the Soviet wants it. Mr. Lie, always solicitous of the feelings of the Reds, thinks the U. S. should yield this point to the Russians in order to end the present paralysis of UN affairs. Events have shown, however, that any surrender by the western states only encourages Moscow to make demands for still greater concessions.

The Munich type of appeasement was not the road to peace before World War I. It is not the road today.

ANOTHER ADVENTURE

In spite of Republican opposition it seems now to be settled that President Truman's Point 4 Plan for helping backward nations will be included in the new $3,200,000,000 foreign aid program. The vote in the Senate was 47 to 27 and that majority is large enough for all practical purposes.

So the United States is committed to one more new adventure, and about the best that can be hoped for is that the $35,000,000 allotted for Point 4 will be spent with the utmost discretion and with a full understanding on the part of all concerned that this is not just another handout. The fact that 60 nations, taking time by the forelock, have already announced they want to participate in the scheme is indication enough of the demands which will be made upon the U. S. Treasury.

The purpose of Point 4, as stated by the President, is to enable economically undeveloped areas of the world, through U. S. technical assistance, to rise to greater productivity of goods, to expand their commerce and thus enjoy higher standards of living.

But what many people are afraid of—and history gives them ground for their fears—is that free-spending officials in Washington will discover that there is a call for much greater generosity on Uncle Sam's part. They will find new needs that they think ought to be met. They will try to persuade Congress to share with the less fortunate more and more of the good things of American life.

THE PRE-FAB CHOP

When they brought in the chicken of tomorrow with no wings, double breast, and chunky drumsticks, and the beef steer that looks more like a hassock than a steer, many thought millennium had arrived. But not quite yet, as revealed by the Wall Street Journal.

In a round up on the restaurant business, the Journal makes the first newsbreak of "pre-fabricated meats." But this is not a new gimmick that chews up meat and dishes it up in new form. This is purely a technical term, referring to a new process known mostly to restaurant owners, who, the Journal says, are having a hard time making their books come out with black ink on them, what with the prive of food.

Anyhow, "pre-fab meats" are steaks, chops, and roasts, or other meat items which can now be bought ready-cut from meat packers. The traditional practice was to buy a whole side of beef, or a whole pork loin (to get the desired steaks and chops), pay someone to butcher it, and worry over what to do with the perfectly good trimmings and ends.

Now, if a restaurateur wants, say, 100 steaks, five roasts and X number of pork chops, that's what he gets. He then knows within a fraction of a cent his cost factors. It helps him shave his menu prices and beat competition. Nothing goes out the "back door."

Well, you have to take your hats off to them. Restaurant owners are a valuable group as far as public relations are concerned. They serve some 62,000,000 meals a day to a particular and complaining public. Tricks such as pre-fab chops, kids' menus, and other come-ons are a necessity, and most of the public will be willing to go along. The restaurateur, after all, is entitled to a small profit.

But many will view the appearance of pre-fab meats with a tinge of regret. It puts that steak or chop just one more step away from the plump Hereford or spring lamb whence they sprung. This is another instance of the practical aspects of a situation running afoul sentiment and tradition.

Joe Stalin keeps clouded up over Berlin, but so far he has decided not to rain.

President Truman went west and dedicated the Coulee Dam for the fifth time. But we doubt whether he gained many votes.

A New York coffee merchant told a Senate agriculture subcommittee that artificially high coffee prices have cut consumption by half. He thinks that's grounds for complaint.

Swiss yodelers would be amazed at the acoustics in America. Every time President Truman said something in the west, he was answered back from Washington.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Expect Blast From Soviet

A blast of Soviet propaganda against Secretary of State Dean Acheson's designation of an "Atlantic Community" as a bulwark of peace was anticipated in international circles today.

But the American statesman, in his post-Memorial Day report to the Congress on his recent conversations with top British and French government leaders in Europe, appears to have dulled the sharp edge of Soviet criticism.

For he placed heavy emphasis upon his conviction that the European statesmen best qualified to know do not hold fears of any conflict with Soviet Russia.

In this connection, his statement was restricted to armed and atomic warfare in all its ghastliness.

Remain Well-Armed

Acheson stressed that only by remaining well-armed and strong, and by extending its strength to unprotected areas of the globe, can the democracy of the United States remain intact against the steady and increasing incursions of communism.

The secretary's deliberate speech in the Library of Congress drove home the somewhat curious fact that in Europe, whose western nations border upon the outposts of militant communism, there seems to be less fear of a new war than elsewhere in the world.

This has been traced to defeatism and to cynicism alike.

But whatever the cause may be, the fact remains that a continuing belief that international cooperation is possible prevails, and this thought Secretary Acheson vigorously underlined.

It surely is a matter of record that the French government, for example, is proceeding on a theory that vast reconstruction measures can and should be placed in operation.

This automatically presupposes that no sudden outbreak of war will occur to destroy them.

Warnings Sounded

The warnings sounded by former Secretary of State George C. Marshall and other American leaders on Memorial Day emphasizing that a new conflict might well destroy the world point up European strivings in behalf of peace.

French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman's plan to combine French and German steel, iron and coal resources into an arsenal of continental prosperity, security and peace is one.

The council of Europe, while plodding a hard road at Strasbourg, is another.

Then there is Benelux—the amalgamation of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg into an economic triumvirate eliminating customs and trade barriers.

And Winston Churchill's grandiose idea of a United States of Europe has refused to succumb despite a certain lack of enthusiasm on the part of nations refusing to part with any degree of sovereignty.

Even repeated Communist charges that this is the apex of alleged western militaristic "encirclement" have failed to invalidate the essential values of such a union.

Humanistic View

From the strictly humanistic point of view, the European attitude regarding war and peace might well be traced to a deep inner conviction that "it can never happen again."

Except for the extremely young, there is hardly a person alive in all of Europe today who does not know at first hand of war in all its previous horrors or who lacks the capacity to envisage an atomic one.

Britain had its many blitzes, its coventry and its stark realization that invasion was possible.

France knew the rigors of occupation, and even remembers far better the days when fleeing refugees were ruthlessly bombed and machine-gunned by Nazi planes on the roads.

Holland flooded itself in a vain attempt to resist invasion. Belgium was overrun, and many of its architectural glories blasted to bits along with civilians. Norway was bombed and occupied. So was Denmark.

And there is no belying the tremendous damage that was done to Soviet Russia itself and Stalingrad still stands as an epic battle against tyranny.

Secretary Acheson implied all of these past events in his historic report. He did not say that war is no longer a menace or ever will cease to be one. But he voiced an uplifting hope that some day it may be expunged from the conscience of man.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DIFFERENCE IN AGE MEANS MUCH

Two children far apart in age are poor playmates, in the family or elsewhere. While the much younger child can watch what the older does, he rarely is able to compete or share in co-operative fun with him. Neither can the older child enjoy the normal fun of the younger child and his playmates when they are in his home. Each child needs playmates of about his own age outside the home.

The older child might, however, be able to engineer some ways for the younger children to have fun. With his superior skill with tools he might, with pleasure, guide them in making things. Also, he might occasionally enjoy reading to them. When this older child does read to his much younger brother or sister, he can feel quite worthy and important. He will, moreover, thus improve his own reading skill.

Same Family

But as two children of the same family, who are several years apart in age, grow older they will grow more different still in their play interests. And when the elder approaches adolescence his younger brother or sister will seem very unworthy to him for sharing the fun this older child and his pals have.

When the two children of a family far apart in ages are expected to be constant playmates, the elder inclines to spend most of his time defending his rights and possessions from the younger, and the younger one inclines to annoy the elder and tattle on him. Tattling and quarrelling usually grows worse if the mother, on the tattling "evidence" of the younger, holds a trial to find out which child was at fault. A mother writes of her sons, seven and three:

Play Together

"The problem is to get them to play together peaceably. I've wanted them to be real brothers, so up to now I have tried to make them play together. But with such constant fussing, have come to the point, is it wise, or should one respect the older child and keep the younger one away?"

As I wrote the mother, these children are too far apart in ages to be constant playmates. They are very different persons with widely different interests and play skills. Each needs to spend considerable play time with other children of his own age. And when one child has a friend in for play the other child should mind his own business or join the rest only on their invitation to do so. My enclosed bulletins, "Quarrelling and Fighting" and "Jealousy", may be had by anybody else in a stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y.

The children can't enjoy many of the same playthings. Recognize each child's ownership and protect it. See that the younger does not appropriate the elder's things or harm them; and that the elder respects the younger's possessions. If the elder has outgrown one of his own toys the younger likes, this elder child still may object when the younger plays with this toy. We met this problem with our own children by buying at a reasonable price some of his outgrown toys from the elder with the understanding that he would give up all claims to them and that they would henceforth be the sole possession of the younger. Such procedures could greatly reduce jealousies and quarrelling between your boys and enable them to be more companionable and each to develop as an individual and social person.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

JUDGE WHO WOULDN'T JUDGE

They give their children loving care.
Good neighbors all are they.
Not one of them herself will spare,
Ask duty what it may.
I should have known I should refuse,
Before the time drew near,
So hard a task when asked to choose
The mother of the year.

They all obey the golden rule.
To cheer the sick they call,
And weekly both to church and school
They take their children small.
The one who wins and those who lose,
At heart, alike appear.
I cannot find the way to choose
The mother of the year.

Their homes with love and laughter glow.
By friends they're all adored.
They cook, they sweep, they nightly sew.
They love and serve the Lord.
And so, as one of judges three,
To keep my conscience clear,
I voted every one to be
The mother of the year.

State Police Say:

There is an old saying that every road has a turning. This adage holds dangerous implications for the driver who overdrives his headlights on a road with which he is not familiar. Many night-time accidents occur when cars are driven at a speed greater than will permit them being stopped within the distance illuminated by their headlights. You are taking an unnecessary chance when you drive at a speed too fast for prevailing conditions.

One Man's Opinion

An officer of the Federation of Women's Clubs says "something is missing in the American home" . . . it must be something that can't be bought on time payments.

In years gone by, neighbors used to peek out from behind the curtains to see if the new people owned a piano . . . if they did, it was a big family and everybody was working.

Today it can be a big screen and nobody working but those things can be arranged.

Since buyer resistance stiffened a little, one dealer will throw in a set of dishes and a chest of silver plate with a TV set and also cash relief checks.

The latest household aid is an infra-red grill which will broil a chop in three minutes . . . this is only a little more time than the best can opener can make for a rush supper.

It's fairly inexpensive and who will mind another quarter a week anyway . . . they still come four to the 60 cent dollar.

From Me To You

By MESEEALL

The French seem to have taken over Lawrence County for the summer . . . well at least one Frenchman . . . he has charge of the road to Dixie Inn and yesterday he took over the Harlansburg road . . . Now wait a moment . . . don't say what is that guy talking about . . . you know that old story about the great American tourist making his way across the nation . . . he comes upon a sign that points thataway instead of thisaway . . . and upon the sign is the word detour. So he thinks that Mr. Detour (a good sounding French name) has taken over . . . but the tourist doesn't think much of the Frenchman for he seldom maintains the best type of road. So it is with Lawrence County this summer . . . Mr. Detour has taken over . . . but just you wait until he goes away this fall . . . Our network of roads will be greatly improved.

But with all the highways that are being improved . . . widened and the curves taken away . . . we are not going to solve the one great problem . . . . Accidents. Only the motorist himself . . . each individual one . . . can help improve the accident record. The practice of unsafe driving has been again called to our attention . . . That pracice of some of the young drivers playing a game of tag on the highway. Speeding up and passing a car . . . then slowing down . . . and as soon as they are passed again . . . speeding up and again passing the cars ahead. You won't believe it . . . but the boys are not the only ones to play this game . . . State police not many days ago stopped several car loads of girls.

Recommendation for those who insist on playing this motor car tag game . . . (Besides revoking driving privileges.) Take the drivers and occupants of these "Tag Game Cars" to the scene of the next fatal accident . . . and let them see the results with their own eyes.

* * *

We are not at the moment thinking about pleasant sights . . . and we realize that it will take much, much work to keep safety before the eyes of all motorists . . . But friends, it's not the sole responsibility of the City and State Police to talk and practice safety . . . Everyone needs to keep talking and practicing safety on the streets and highways . . . Then we'll all win.

Washington Calling

Symington Has Real Problems

WASHINGTON, June 2.—When W. Stuart Symington was named chairman of the National Security Resources Board, neither he nor anyone else can have been wholly aware of what a fantastically difficult and demanding assignment it was. In the weeks that have intervened, the realization of this has been weighing down on the chairman.

In order to try to put the picture together in peace and quiet, Symington has gone off to his country place outside St. Louis. In this retreat he is poring over a mass of reports, proposals, plans, charts. When he returns, he hopes to have at least the rudiments of an overall plan for the most perplexing of the problems he faces.

Perplexing Problem

That is the civilian defense of America's cities in the event of atomic bombing in a third world war. Merely to state the terms of this problem is to come up against its overwhelming scope.

Since he took over the chairmanship, Symington has been pressed on the one hand by those who have demanded that he produce immediately a master system to insure the safety of every citizen. City officials such as Mayor Robertson of San Francisco have criticized the NSRB chairman for delay. On the other hand, others have said that since any defense is virtually impossible, the effort had best be abandoned. This led to reports, which are not true, that it had in fact been given up.

Anything like a complete defense would mean such revolutionary changes as to alter entirely the nature of our free society. It would have to be made over into a pattern of total control exercised by the central government. Those who have given careful study to atomic defense, such as Senator Brien McMahon, chairman of the atomic energy committee, have long realized that this was the deadly paradox at the heart of the problem.

Come By Sneak Attack

An atomic bombing could come by sneak attack in the fashion of Pearl Harbor. The air space over the United States is not policed. Planes are requested to file their flight plans. But they are not compelled to do so. And the radar network to be put around North America is still in a beginning stage.

The contrast with the Soviet Union is striking. With one exception, foreign planes are forbidden to fly over Russian territory. The one exception is the plane used by the American ambassador which is kept in Berlin. When the ambassador wants the plane to come to Moscow for him, he must file a request five days in advance; a Russian navigator must be aboard the plane and its flight path is limited to a narrow corridor.

The belief is that the five-day notice is necessary so that anti-aircraft batteries and fighter defense units of the Soviet air force will be alerted and will not shoot down the alien plane. We saw what happened when a U. S. navy plane with a new and special reconnaissance equipment flew across the Baltic on a flight path way outside the territorial waters of the Soviet Union but close enough, in the Russian view, to violate the secrecy of fortified areas.

Could Be Secreted

Atom bombs could also be delivered by secreting them in the hulls of freighters sent into American ports. This has long been considered feasible. A law now on the statute books forbids any inspection of the contents of a ship's hold until it has been in port for 90 days.

In any event, inspection in crowded ports such as New York,

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Acheson: "If the free nations did not look to their defenses, and do so speedily, the maintenance of security and peace might not be possible."

WASHINGTON—Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis., commenting on Acheson's speech: "The 'red dean' of Washington is at it again."

BELGRADE — Marshal Tito: "The Yugoslavs are united like a rock and determined to defend the fatherland and their socialism against everybody who tries to lift a hand against them."

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—Tingfu F. Tsiang, delegate of the Chinese Nationalist government to the U. N.: "The United Nations would be doing the cause of peace a great disservice if it should lead the world on the path of appeasement to the aggressor."

Try And Stop Me

Hy Gardner attended one party on his last country-wide tour that established a number of records. Most of the guests were swept or carried out by 7 a. m., but just when the hosts thought they were alone at last, one more charm boy was found asleep and fully dressed in the bath-tub. Floating on top of the ice-cold water was a milk bottle with a paper on which he had written his name, telephone number and a plea for help.

Paderewski made his first appearance in a New York concert hall at the zenith of his power and skill. Musicians from all over the east came to marvel at his flawless technique. Between numbers, two of them fell to raving in the foyer. "Greatest player of the age," exclaimed one. "Agreed," said the other. "He's a-a-a veritable Paderewski!"

Acheson In Action

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—Whatever else may be said about it, Secretary Acheson's 17-month career in the State Department has never produced a dull moment. He's up . . . he's down . . . he's up again in the estimation of Congress and the country. One reason must be that Mr. Acheson never plays it safe. He's egotistical, incautious, quixotic, idealistic and reckless of popularity under all circumstances. This is a bundle of traits which makes for the adventurous life and which always leaves the outcome of each encounter in doubt. To lift a section of dialogue from Rostand's heroic play, "Cyrano de Bergerac".

De Guiche: "Windmills, remember, if you fight with them . . . may swing their great arms and cast you down into the mire."

Cyrano: "Or up—among the stars."

Career Up In The Air

At this moment Mr. Aheson's career can be said to be up in the air, somewhere between the mire of defeat and the firmament of achievement. He may fall down hard, but it's worth hoping and not unreasonable to believe that his reputation is on the climb again, as it was before his oft-quoted Alger Hiss comment.

To take lesser things first, Mr. Acheson has benefited by the broadening scope of spy hunt findings. A few weeks ago, what with the Hiss case and the McCarthy charges, the State Department was made to look like the only refuge in Washington of unsavory characters. But now we have seen Harry Gold arrested as the go-between of a plot to steal atomic secrets which the Army had in keeping. Two Commerce Department workers, Remington and Lee, have been asked to resign because of their doubtful loyalty. A witness has told the Tydings committee that the Justice Department flubbed the prosecution of spy cases in the "Amerasia" scandal. Thus at least three other departments, in addition to State, have been made to look bad. This does not excuse the State Department, but it certainly reduces the heat, or at least spreads the fire to other localities.

Reputation Has Improved

Much more important, Mr. Acheson's reputation has improved because of his activities in London and Paris. He has not, perhaps, made World War III less probable. Only a Russian change of policy could do that. But Mr. Acheson over the past three weeks has bettered our chances to win World War III, if it comes, and to face it with the satisfaction of having done our unstinting prewar best.

What he brought back from Europe is the greatly increased knowledge that the Atlantic Pact nations are determined to stand together, come what may. To achieve this gain, Mr. Acheson has gone further than any Secretary of State in history toward bringing about some surrender of sovereignty by a group of like-minded nations. At least one evidence of European unification was wholly unexpected and still seems incredible—the willingness of France and Germany to bury their bloody hatchet. Another evidence was hoped for but not consummated when he went abroad—Britain's acceptance of a European payment union. A third was in the wind and is still not brought down to earth—the plan to unite military responsibility for stopping Russia if she attacks any Atlantic Pact partner.

Although none of these accomplishments is complete, every one of them should be marked up to Mr. Acheson's credit. Here was one conference which did not end on the vapid hope to do better next time. Everything considered, it's hard to see how Mr. Acheson could have done more and better; easy to see how he could have done less and worse.

How Far Will Congress Go?

How far will Congress go in approving the Acheson record abroad? No one need bother to hope that he will get any praise from the extreme nationalists—a name which they prefer to the older name, isolationists. But there is a group of moderate senators who offer a better line on the current appraisal of Mr. Acheson. One of these is Senator Knowland (R., Calif.) who has blown both hot and cold toward the Secretary. A few kind words from Knowland would indicate that Mr. Acheson comes home with more support than he had when he left. Another indicator is Senator Taft, a man of variable but hair-line opinions on foreign affairs. The Ohio statesman has always been of two minds on the Atlantic Pact. He has been willing to extend the Monroe Doctrine to Europe. That is to say, Taft recognizes that our frontier now extends to the Iron Curtain. He has been willing to arm France, but not the lesser continental nations, out of the American arsenal. A good measure of Mr. Acheson's improving repute will be Taft's evaluation of what was accomplished in London and Paris.

Finally, as noted here before, Mr. Acheson has benefited by the explosion of the myth that the McCarthy attacks hurt him in Europe. This idea blew up shortly after he landed there, and hasn't been heard of since. But how much, if at all, did those attacks damage his ability to deal with Congress? A good guess is that Mr. Acheson will find the Senators much more interested in the program he has to offer than in the Secretary himself. But the next several weeks will tell.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Knocking America has become the fashion of late.

Get a few people together and before you know it the knocking has begun.

Everybody, rich or poor, finds something wrong with America.

High taxes. Gambling. Increase of crime. Welfare State. Strikes. Labor. Capital. Republicans. Democrats. Communists.

It's simply awful, says Mrs. Smith, lifting her glass and taking another sip of her Scotch highball. (The Scotch cost $8.00 a Fifth; the glass in which it is served is real crystal.)

Mr. Jones agrees.

"The coutry isn't fit to live in anymore," he says. He, too, takes another swallow. Only Mr. Jones drinks Bourbon—real, old, Kentucky, Bourbon. (His suit, by the way, was made by and expensive Fifth avenue tailor and costs $165, with one pair of pants.

Mrs. Brown has another complaint.

"It's awful what the traffic is nowadays," she says. "Would you believe it, it took my chauffeur twenty minutes to drive three blocks this afternoon! I almost missed my appointment with the beauty parlor, just imagine!"

Yes, it's a terrible country.

There is one question, though, I have never been able to answer.

Why is it that all these whiners and complainers and defilers and slanderers of America haven't shown the slighest desire to live anywhere?

They go to Paris or London or Rome on a visit—at least those who can afford it. They get gypped right and left by the hotels, the shops, the sight-seeing guides—by everybody.

Then they come back and rave about gay Paree, historical London, picturesque Rome—but do they go back there to live? They do not.

It just happen that in this awful America in which there is nothing right there are a few things of which they don't seem to have much in those European paradises.

They don't have enough bathtubs. They don't have enough nor modern enough bathrooms, if you know what I mean. They don't have enough heat. They don't have enough telephones and the ones they do have don't seem to work very well. They don't have any ice water.

Very few people in those "perfect and picturesque countries" get enough to eat. Steaks are a luxury. Butter is almost nonexistent for the average person. Clothes are shabby, shoes down at the heels.

Automobiles are reserved for the very wealthy. Gasoline costs almost as much over there as champagne does here in America.

But there is something else. And even the kickers and detractors know it.

Here in America a man owns his own soul!

Here in America things can go wrong only if the free men and women who live in it are too darn lazy or too stupid to set them right. And that statement includes you and me.

For me America—even as she is—is good enough.

And every morning when I wake up I thank God for having given me another day to enjoy in that greatest of all spots on His earth—America.

Basing Point Bill Nearing Senate Vote

By FRANK B. ALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The bitterly-disputed "basing point" bill comes to a vote in the Senate today amid opponents' cries that it could prove a death warrant for small operators in the nation's big industries.

The measure is aimed at legalizing the method by which a manufacturer can make a long-distance invasion of a competitor's home teritory by "absorbing" the big freight bill for far-flung hauls.

The "absorption" is achieved by dividing the firm's total freight costs among all customers both near and far and pegging sale prices on geographical "basing points".

The Supreme Court a few years ago ruled the practice illegal as it was carried on by a portion of the cement industry.

The measure facing a showdown in the Senate today is a House-approved compromise aimed at removing any confusion that may have arisen from the celebrated cement case decision of the high court. It would permit the basing point system so long as it is carried out in good faith competition and entails no anti-trust price fixing.

Scholarship For 1950 Laurel Festival Queen

HARRISBURG, June 2.—Seventy-five young ladies representing Pennsylvania high schools will be entered in the 16th annual Laurel Festival in Wellsboro on June 16, says the State Department of Commerce vacation and recreation bureau.

From this group of high school seniors will be chosen the 1950 Laurel Queen who will be awarded a four-year state scholarship.

In most states it costs about 10 times as much to keep a prisoner locked up as it does to have him on parole.

WASHINGTON CALLING

Boston or San Francisco would be all but impossible. What do you do then? Do you shut off all foreign trade? If you do that, the great seaport cities will wither away.

These are some of the questions that have been put up to Symington. He has also been confronted with the extraordinary compartmentalization of American life in terms of state and municipal boundaries. Thus, a doctor licensed in one state may not come into another state to practice.

The size of fire hose and fire hose couplings vary from city to city and state to state. Because of this, it would be impossible for the fire-fighting apparatus of one community to help put out a conflagration in another community.

This is just to suggest a few of the difficulties that immediately confront the defense planners. At the same time, they have had some pretty thorough estimates made of what the destruction would be. For example, one modern type atomic bomb dropped in the center of America's largest cities would produce the most appalling number of casualties. A careful estimate has been made for one of America's cities which is classified secret, and why it should be hard to understand.

By the end of June, Symington hopes to have the outline of a plan ready to present to the President. How far it will go is at the moment anyone's guess. The question can perhaps be phrased more realistically in terms of how far it can go and win public acceptance within the framework of the America we have known.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 2.—(INS)—Scranton's population for 1950 is 125,080, a decrease of 15,324 from the last check-up, according to a report submitted today by Richard Walsh, supervisor of the U.S. census in Scranton.

Walsh told Mayor James T. Hanlon the report is subject to a few minor revisions.

Third Of Applicants Flunk Driver Tests

HARRISBURG, June 2.—A report released from State Police headquarters today shows that one of every three applicants for operators' licenses fail to pass required examination.

Based on figures for the first quarter of 1950, there were 33.9 per cent of the examinations which resulted in failure. State Police conducted 59,835 tests, 20,262 of which indicated that the applicants were not yet ready to assume their responsibilities as drivers on the highways.

"It seems necessary to repeat the reminder that applicants must be better prepared when they present themselves for examination if they expect to be handed the privilege of driving," said Colonel C. M. Wilhelm, State Police commissioner.

"As has been emphasized repeatedly, the tests are not difficult for the applicant who has learned to drive and is familiar with the Vehicle Code Digest received by each applicant when he obtains his learner's permit. While it is unfortunate that so many examinations result in failure, we will not assume the responsibility of placing poorly qualified drivers on the highways."

Swing Lobby To Be Held Tonight

Swing Lobby will also be held on Monday and Wednesday of next week at the terrace during the same hours.

BE CAREFUL

We read in the story books about the pioneers. They were in danger from wolves and bears and Indians and fire and floods and a lot of other things. "They didn't know nuthin."

Nowadays there are hundreds of dangers that the pioneers could not even imagine.

Nowadays there are hundreds of dangers that the pioneers could not even imagine.

The rare dangers are bad enough but the little common accidents are the worst.

Mom burns her eyebrows when she lights the oven gas. Dad pounds his finger when he drives a nail. Susy gets a cut when she opens a coke. Buster falls off of the table when he climbs up to get a banana.

Grandma says "Be careful," then bumps into a door and breaks her glasses.

FARM AND HOME WEEK

Folks Of Fame

Aldous Huxley was born July 26, 1894, in England, and served on the editorial staff of a magazine there. He has been a dramatic critic, edited The Letters of D. H. Lawrence and written novels, poems, essays. Two of his early novels were The Burning Wheel and The Defeat of Youth. A later book is This Brave New World. His latest books are The Art of Seeing (1943), Time Must Have a Stop (1944), The Perennial Philosophy (1945). He now lives in the United States.

Surely you must remember this beauty of the silent films, Velma Banky. She was born near Budapest, Hungary, and served a stage apprenticeship in that city, Berlin, Munich and Paris, becoming a star. She came to the United States in 1923, with a contract from Sam Goldwyn, and created a sensation in Dark Angel, with Ronald Colman. Remember her in The Winning of Barbara Worth, Night of Love, Magic Flame; with Rudolph Valentino, in The Eagle? How about Beauty and the Beast, The Garden of Allah? She was married to another well-known screen player, Rod La Rocque.

Man Who Stabbed Aunt To Death Is Taken By Police

PORTLAND, Me., June 2—(INS)—A medically discharged Marine stabbed his aunt to death in a frenzy early today and drove with her body 100 miles to Portland where he surrendered without a struggle at a police roadblock.

Police said William N. Elwell stared at them glassily and mumbled:

"Two fellows forced me to do this."

A few minutes before Elwell reached the roadblock set up to halt him in response to an alarm flashed from Melrose, Mass., he dumped the body Viola Tully, 56 into a field.

Body Is Found

The body of Mrs. Tully, a widow was found a short time after Elwell's meek surrender, ending his automobile dash from Melrose.

Police said Elwell was discharged from the Marine Corps for medical reasons last year. He had been given a home by Mrs. Tully several days ago and was repairing her nine-room house to pay for his keep.

The slaying was discovered within minutes after it was carried out. Mrs. Tully's screams as her attacker went after her with an ice pick aroused neighbors.

One neighbor, Irving Dale, saw the killer carry the dying woman into her garage, a bed sheet wrapped around her. Dale called police when he saw the youth throw his burden into the trunk of the car and speed off.

Chinese Reds Are Accused

Seized Marshall Plan Goods Says Paul G. Hoffman

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(INS)—Foreign Aid Administrator Paul G. Hoffman today accused Chinese Communists of "illegally" seizing four million dollars worth of Marshall plan goods in Shanghai and sharply condemned the action.

Hoffman reported that the goods, consisting mainly of 22,387 bales of raw cotton were seized on March 17 by Chinese Communists officials in Shanghai. Hoffman asserted:

"We had hoped these goods would go directly to the Chinese people who need them and that well known charitable institutions in China would benefit from the sales of the goods. What the Communists will do with the goods or the proceeds of their sale, we cannot now be sure.

One Thing Is Certain

"One thing is certain, however, they will try to take credit for the goods no matter how they dispose of them or what they do with the money received".

The economic cooperation administrator pointed out that "the Communists are engaged in a never ending attack on the Marshall plan and pretend to spurn the goods which Americans buy and send to countries in need". He added:

"Yet they don't hesitate to seize these goods illegally when they get the chance and they won't hesitate to pass off the goods as their contribution to Chinese recovery".

Union Township Schools Complete School Year Today

Union township's school wound up their school year today with an assembly program at the high school and Union Day at Idora Park.

It was one of the most successful years in the history of the high school, J. Arthur Turek, supervising principal, announces.

Small Yacht Makes Crossing Of Atlantic

NEW YORK, June 2.—(INS)—The 25-foot British yacht "Virtue 35" which sailed across the Atlantic with a two-men crew, headed for a berth at City Island today after spending the night as an unexpected guest at the U. S. Navy Yard in Brooklyn.

The little vessel which battled high seas and storms for 44 days sailed into New York harbor last night.

Her owner, Humphrey Barton, 50, and the other half of her crew, 69-year-old Kevin O'Riordan, were reported exhausted after the long crossing. They asked the Navy if they could tie up over night, and were given permission.

The Coast Guard, one of whose cutters had sighted the yacht 400 miles at sea on May 30, reported her undamaged.

Barton and O'Riordan, both members of the Royal Lymington Yacht Club in England, were quoted as saying they made the trip "just for fun" but they also intended to sell the vessel on this side of the Atlantic to get some U. S. dollars.

French Government Attitude Stiffens

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager, I. N. S.

PARIS, June 2.—The French government's attitude stiffened sharply today as a result of British hesitation to commit the United Kingdom to the principle of unifying French and western German coal and steel production.

International News Service learned that formal invitations to attend a conference of experts to draw up a unification plan will be sent out tonight whether or not Britain's latest reply to the French on participation is favorable.

Invitations will be sent to Germany, Britain, Italy and the Benelux nations.

The decision to proceed without further delay was reached at a French cabinet meeting last night.

The latest French note to Britain contained one concession. The French agreed to eliminate from the invitation and the final communique any statement to which the British objected.

Legion Of Honor Has Enjoyable Party On Friday

Two Are Missing In Eruption Of Mighty Mauna Loa

HILO, Hawaii, June 2—(INS)—Two persons were missing today in an eruption of Hawaii's mighty Mauna Loa which sent streams of fiery lava pouring into the sea fifteen miles from the belching crater.

One of the lava streams destroyed five homes and a Catholic church as it surged over a cliff and into the Pacific near the town of Hookene on the southwest coast of the island of Hawaii.

A. L. Lincoln, former Hookene postmaster, and his wife were reported missing in the wake of the disastrous lava flow, which struck at 1:05 a. m.

Police evacuated about 70 families along a 20-mile coast area as a precautionary measure.

A second lava flow crashed into the seas at 5:15 a. m. about two miles south of the point where the first seething stream reached the water.

'Flying Fuzz' Is Explained

PHILADELPHIA, June 2—(INS)—A Philadelphia naturalist today identified "flying fuzz" which has been reported in many parts of Eastern Pennsylvania as a substance blown from poplar trees.

"It's known as populus grandidentate," said Dr. Francis W. Pennell, curator of botany at the Academy of Natural Sciences.

The fuzz was reported in such points as Bristol, Hulmesville, Doylestown, Quakertown, Allentown, Philadelphia, and Bethlehem, Pa., and in nearby Southern New Jersey.

John L. Hodges, chief of the division of Air Pollution Control in Philadelphia said the substance is "non-poisonous, non-irritating, and nothing to worry about."

The fuzz began drifting into Central Philadelphia early this morning, bringing many telephone queries to newspapers and radio stations.

C.I.O. Union Wins At Westinghouse

PITTSBURGH, June 2.—(INS) The new CIO-International Union of Electrical Workers today held bargaining rights for the East Pittsburgh plant of Westinghouse Electric corporation by a margin of 258 votes.

A total of 11,713 workers of 13,067 eligible cast ballots yesterday in the National Labor Relations board run-off election.

The election makes the new CIO-IUE bargaining agent for more than 41,000 Westinghouse workers in 21 plants. The UE, which was expelled from the CIO last October for alleged Communist activities, retained bargaining rights in 20 plants with about 14,500 workers.

The run-off election yesterday was required because the CIO-IUE margin of 100 votes over the UE in election April 27 was nullified by 147 challenged votes.

BERLIN, GERMANY—Three uniformed German Communist youths, in Berlin for the huge Red rally of 500,000 youngsters, munch fruit at a U. S. sector fruit stand during a "forbidden" visit to the sector. U.S. Will Reject Second Demand For Trial Of Hirohito

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(INS)—A State department spokesman said today the United States will reject a second demand by the Soviet Union for the trial of Emperor Hirohito as a Japanese war criminal.

Know Nearest Box Says Chief

Early Stages Of Fire Are Worst

What people don't see can bother them plenty, as far as alarm boxes are concerned.

So says Fire Chief Herman F. Steinbrink, who reports that many people don't know where their nearest fire alarm boxes are located. The boxes are painted a vibrant red and are usually placed on prominent corner locations so they may be seen. Frequently, they're overlooked, even by those who may pass the emergency signal stations day after day for years.

According to Chief Steinbrink, a recent survey shows that six out of every ten people queried have no idea where to ring in an alarm in case of fire.

He urged every family to make it its business today to find the closest located fire signal box.

"Fire spreads so quickly", the chief declares, "time wasted in turning in an alarm can result in tragedy. In a matter of a few minutes, a small fire mushrooms 50 times as big. Your best bet is to turn in a fire alarm quickly at the nearest box. It is placed conevniently for the protection of and use by the public. Phone messages often are garbled, misdirected or delayed. The emergency signal flashed by the fire alarm box automatic and is virtually foolproof. When you turn in an alarm, stand by the box to give the fire department the exact location of the fire".

Chief Steinbrink strongly advises that each member of the family know the location of the nearest fire alarm box. Those not quite sure where it is are invited to get the location at fire headquarters, Central Fire Station, South Jefferson street.

Miss Emily Rice, commissioner, discussed plans for the regional conference at Pittsburgh in October.

Later interesting games were played and group singing enjoyed.

Duke Of Windsor Says People Would Have Supported Him

NEW YORK, June 2.—(INS.—The Duke of Windsor says the British people, if they were fully informed at the time, would have supported his determination to marry Wallis Warfield Simpson.

The duke, writing his memoirs, says in the current installment in Life magazine, that he considered a morganatic marriage before abdicating as King Edward VIII for the love of the present duchess.

Under a morganatic marriage, the duchess would not be considered of royal blood and their children would have no right of succession to the throne.

The duke says the plan was blocked by the then Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

Baldwin's course, according to the duke, was influenced by his deeply conservative senior ministers. He adds:

"Behind them, I suspected, was a shadowy, hovering presence—the Archbishop of Canterbury."

The duke also discloses that his mother, Queen Mary, and his sister, the Princess Royal, were "sympathetic" when told of his marriage intentions, but refused to receive Mrs. Simpson.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.75 plus tax at better stores.

Senate Banking Committee To Vote On Rent Control

By CHARLES B. SEIB
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A compromise rent control bill to continue present federal ceilings for another six months, is expected to squeak through the Senate Banking committee today.

A poll of committee members indicated that the legislation, which is the administration's last hope for retaining federal controls after June 30, may get only a one or two vote margin of approval.

Even though it seems certain that the extension proposal will come out of committee, it faces a highly uncertain fate in both the House and Senate. Final action is expected in both houses before the end of the month, when the present law expires.

The bill expected to win committee support would continue the present law to December 31. Communities would be given the right to get another six months of federal controls by merely asking for them.

The bill drafted by House Banking Chairman Spence (D) Ky., is slated for House action the week of June 12, with both sides admitting that it's "touch and go."

The Senate committee vote is expected to be pretty much on party lines, with Sen. Robertson (D) Va., an announced opponent of any extension, and Sen. Ives (R) N. Y., believed willing to go along with a six-month bill.

Excessive Rainfall Delays Planting For Second Straight Week

HARRISBURG, June 2.—(INS)—Excessive rainfall for the second consecutive week delayed planting, cultivating and field work generally on Pennsylvania farms last week.

The state agriculture department reported today that corn suffered most from the weather, with little being planted in the state during the week.

Other vegetation continued to grow rapidly, the department said, although cultivation and spraying of early potatoes was set back by wet soil.

New Problem Presented To West Berlin

BERLIN, June 2.—(INS)—West Berlin officials wrestled today with the problem of 1,200 Communist youths stranded in the Western sector, who are either unable or unwilling to return to East Germany.

Additional hundreds are expected when the last transports depart from Eeast Berlin, scene of a huge rally of 500,000 young Communists last week-end.

Those failing to catch the last transport to their homes will find it impossible to return without revealing that they have been to see the "golden west."

Some are afraid to go back to East Germany because Communist border guards are reported to be seizing the belongings of stragglers. Some late-comers even are said to have been sent to the uranium mines.

Can't Support Them

Western officials said they are trying unsuccessfully to persuade many of the youths to go home because West Berlin can not sustain the burden of supporting them.

Meanwhile, West Berlin newspapers said 349 of the Young Communists died during the mass demonstration.

The newspaper reports said the deaths resulted partly from traffic accidents and partly from illnesses, chiefly typhus, diphtheria and pneumonia.

American and British authorities reported meanwhile that traffic on the autobahn into and out of Berlin from the Western sectors, temporarily tied up, now is normal.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 2.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's industrial activity continued to swing upward during March, the business research bureau at Pennsylvania State College reports.

At the beginning of April, it was added, the industrial index stood at 188 or four points more than registered at the start of March.

It was the fifth time in six months that the index rose while the gain also represented the first year-to-year rise in 15 months.

The index is based upon anthracite and bituminous coal loadings, employe hours in manufacturing and industrial power sales using 1935-39 as a base of 100 points.

C.I.O. Asks Boost In Freight Car Production In U.S.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(INS)—The CIO Steelworkers union asked the government for "immediate steps" to boost freight car production as a national defense measure.

The union's view was contained in a statement prepared for delivery by its spokesman, researcher Jack Stieber, before a senate commerce sub-committee.

Stieber reported that employment in the railroad car industry has dropped 51 per cent since February, 1949.

Woman Reinstated On Relief Rolls

PITTSBURGH, June 2.—(INS)—Mrs. Donald E. Nuss, 28, who was dropped from state relief rolls for alleged communist activities, was reinstated on public assistance by Allegheny county common pleas court.

Judge John J. Kennedy accepted an appeal from Mrs. Nuss against the Allegheny county board of assistance and the Pennsylvania department of public assistance.

In accepting the appeal, the court made it mandatory that Mrs. Nuss be returned to relief rolls until final disposition of the case.

Attorney General T. McKean Chidsey ruled in Harrisburg May 23 that Mrs. Nuss was not eligible for relief. He held:

"She has participated in a movement proposing to change the form of government in the United States by a means not provided for in the constitution."

No date for a hearing was set by Judge Kennedy.

4-H MEMBERS LEARNING TO REAR DAIRY CALVES

The 4-H Dairy club members, now starting another interesting season, soon will be practicing fitting and showing of their dairy animals. Practice judging sessions also are scheduled in preparation for the district judging meetings in June and the state contest at 4-H Club Week in August. By giving reasons for their placings, club members get added experience and confidence.

Club members usually report at club meetings on the feeding and growth of their calves. Club members are instructed also to record growth measurements and detailed information on feed used each month.

If calves are taught to lead at an early age, at about five months, they can be trained more easily than later. Patience is required, but the results will show readily. Teach them to walk slowly, leading them from the left and walking backward. Leading calves 5 or 6 times a week will train them well for showing at round-up and fairs.

Feeding and care also are important. Keep calves under a year of age off pasture. They should have exercise and fresh air in a dry lot, and have plenty of good-quality hay, and a growing ration of about 16 per cent protein, and fresh water all the time. Yearlings due to freshen this fall can be fed almost entirely on hay, silage, and pasture with a little grain, about five pounds daily, depending on their condition and the type of hay used.

Transfer registration papers on all club animals so they are in the club members' name before July 1. Keep the record books up to date, and for economical gains, keep the calves growing as rapidly as possible.

CAN PREVENT MUCH LIGHTNING DAMAGE

Many farm animal can be saved from destruction by lightning with just a few simple precautions. The toll of animals standing near fences can be reduced, for example, simply by grounding the fence at about 200-foot intervals.

Animals standing under a tree can be protected by putting a lightning rod up the tree trunk to the highest point and grounding it down to where the soil is permanently moist. Trees in the pasture lot offer shade and improve the looks of the farm, but are definitely a lightning hazard. Such trees often can be saved by protecting them with lightning rods.

This is a good time to check all grounds on lightning rod systems on buildings to make sure they are in place and firmly imbedded in the soil.

A lightning rod system on buildings is worse than none at all if grounds have been destroyed or pulled loose.

LIGHTING

BLOOMFIELD, N. J. — (INS)—While today's lighting often furnishes 100 times better seeing conditions than it did 50 years ago, it still is only about six percent of that required for top comfort and energy conservation, according to a director of applied lighting.

Cats Begin Life In New Surroundings

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 2.—(INS)—Three cats that had lived alone in a Providence mansion with maid service for more than a year began life anew in more humble surroundings.

The late Mrs. Sophie H. S. Howarth had stipulated in her will that her pets remain in the big house and that her maid, Elizabeth Bernie, be paid $10 a week just to care for them.

The cats were evicted yesterday by court order. The executor and heirs agreed to pay Miss Bernie $4,000 to take the cats into her own home.

State Capitol

Some Changes Are Forecast

Secretary Roosevelt May Be On Way Out

HARRISBURG, June 2.—Political speculation to fill the void left by election week and the long Memorial Day week-end revolves around Commerce Secretary Theodore Roosevelt III . . . Though there has been no obvious break between Gov. James H. Duff and young Roosevelt, it appears he is on his way out as commerce's head man . . . The speculation is built on a statement made in one of Judge John S. Fine's campaign speeches . . . Fine, in an evident overture to coalmen, promised a commerce secretary who is familiar with the problems of the coal fields . . . Almost everyone connected with the industry realizes it needs a shot in the arm to save it from being overwhelmed by natural gas and oil, which is mushrooming throughout the state . . . This means, if elected governor, Fine will replace Duff's protege . . . There is no inkling who Fine may have in mind . . . But observers are wondering what effect this may have in the Duff-Fine alignment or whether the governor has blessed Fine's decision.

Now that the school teachers are approaching reasonable incomes, the Pennsylvania State Education Bulletin said the attention will be focused on the teacher . . . The question will be—is the teacher worth the salary? . . . The PSEA thinks because teachers are receiving better salaries they will be under attack from different groups who favor slashing spending all along the line . . . To meet this, says the PSEA, teachers should fulfill their obligations as a professional group by competence in their work and take an active part in defense of higher salaries for teachers . . .

The Pennsylvania Game Commission will put into effect a plan to reduce its seven field divisions to six by dividing the state into fairly equal areas . . . Northwest will cover 10 counties with headquarters at Oil City; north central will include 10 counties centered on DuBois; northeast, 10 counties with headquarters at Forty-Fort; southwest will have 10 counties directed from Ligonier; 11 county south central will have headquarters at Huntingdon, while the southeast's 13 counties will be operated from West Reading . . . Commission heads say the reorganization means a saving of the game fund and will result in simplification of records and a clearer definition of the territory to the public at large . . . Formerly the regions were not defined.

According to latest reports from the Bureau of Public Roads of the U. S. Commerce department, only California ranks Pennsylvania in total mileage of its hard-surfaced roads . . . And California has three times the area . . . Texas is third and New York fourth . . . Per square mile of area, the Keystone state heads the Golden state in miles of highway . . . As an added note, the State Commerce department reveals the motorists driving only through the roads of state parks and forests this summer would travel a combined distance of 3,488 miles . . .

SCHOOL WIENER ROAST

Mrs. Kathryn Roberts, teacher of the Edenburg Independent school, reports a 97% attendance for the term ending Friday, June 2nd. Thursday the pupils enjoyed a wiener roast and ice-cream was furnished which all surely appreciated. Rev. Harry Johnston showed a number of reels of moving pictures a delight for every child which was showed by their applause an enthusiasm. A very successful school year has closed credit to both teachers and pupils.

EDENBURG NOTES

ICE CREAM OUTPUT

HARRISBURG—It must have been the cool weather of April that caused a drop in ice cream manufacture in Pennsylvania this year compared with last, according to the State Department of Agriculture. Production this April was 4,800,000 gallons, five per cent above March, but six per cent under April 1949 and five per cent under the April average, 1944-48. But, as usual, Pennsylvania led all other states in the production of ice cream in April.

Boy Is Drowned, Mother Saved In Boating Accident

PITTSBURGH, June 2.—(INS)—An eight-year-old boy was drowned and his mother was rescued yesterday in a boating mishap on the Allegheny river at Pittsburgh.

The boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cekleva, and his mother were thrown into the water when the outboard motorboat piloted by the father lurched sharply.

The father, who could not swim, jumped into the water in an attempt to rescue his wife and son. Police credited the woman's skirt with keeping her afloat until help arrived.

Sawyer Seeks Authority To Fire Employes

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(INS)— Commerce Secretary Sawyer said at the White House today he will ask Congress for authority to fire "incompetents and troublemakers."

Sawyer would not comment specifically on his demand for the resignations of William W. Remington and Michael E. Lee, two commerce department employes whose names have been mentioned in congressional loyalty investigations.

The commerce secretary said after a cabinet meeting that he did not want to discuss their cases. But, he added:

"I would like to have authority to deal with incompetents and troublemakers."

Sawyer said he would ask Congress for such authority. He pointed out that the state and defense departments have such authority but it is not now given to other government departments.

Found Guilty Of Failure To Make Income Tax Return

CLEVELAND, June 2.—(INS)—Cleveland Attorney Fred N. Acker faces a possible year in jail and a fine up to $10,000 today for his refusal to become what he describes as "a tax slave".

Acker's battle with the federal government was halted temporarily last night when a Cleveland jury found him guilty of a crime for failure to file a 1946 income tax return.

Undismayed by his defeat, the bespectacled, 54-year-old attorney said:

"I will, of course, appeal. I was not born a tax slave and I will not die one."

For two days, Acker had tried to convince the jury that the present income tax law, scaling upward on bigger incomes, is unconstitutional, insisting that "excesses" have made it "confiscatory."

Acker, who defended himself, was reported to have won three jurors to his views. But a guilty verdict was returned within five hours after the jury got the case.

Decline In Total Strike Idleness During One Month

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(INS)—The Labor department today reported a 15 per cent decline in total strike idleness during April, despite an increase of 50 per cent in new strikes that month.

Strike idleness in all work stoppages in effect during the month dropped from approximately 3,750,000 man-days in March to 3,150,000 in April. The Chrysler walkout, which was not ended until May 4, accounted for about 60 per cent of the idleness.

A survey by the Bureau of labor statistics showed a rise from the 260 new strikes affecting 30,000 workers which began in March to 400 in April involving 160,000 employes.

Total stoppages in April, both old and new walkouts, were substantially greater in number than in March, but they affected fewer workers. There were 550 stoppages in effect in April, involving 300,000 workers; in March 400 strikes idling 530,000 workers.

BLS officials said the strike idleness for the first four months of 1950 is somewhat higher than every year except the big wave of walkouts in the immediate postwar period in 1946.

For the first four months of this year, strike idleness totaled 17,400,000 man days. In the same period of '946, there were 70 million, 700 thousand man-days of idleness.

Latin Honors Are Awarded

Winners Are Named At High School

With its records now all complete and commencement activities ended, the Latin department at the senior high school announces its honor students for the year. These honors have been determined by a series of objective tests taken during the spring term by all students in the Latin classes and then ranked according to the indicated achievement.

The senior honors were won by Miriam Blau, Summa Cum Laude, and Peter Mancino and John Ba-Kuhn who tied for Magna Cum Laude. These students received the Latin department's medal in golden bronze which is awarded by Senatus Romanus. Much more important is the cash prize which the Lawrence County Bar Association awarded to Miriam Blau for winning the highest honor.

Junior honors include Viennabelle Prioletti, Summa Cum Laude; Norma Jones, Magna Cum Laude; and Lucy De Vincentis and Peter Rosenberger, Cum Laude. Viennabelle Prioletti last year won the same position in the sophomore honor finals. These students would become eligible to membership in Senatus Romanus if they were not already members from their success in Latin in the tenth year.

The sophomores to whom honors have been awarded are as follows: Summa Cum Laude, John Ross; Magna Cum Laude, John Cobau; Cum Laude, Phillip Kirol, Suzanne Blau, Ann Perry, Loretta Stofick, Joan Book, Joan Porter, Evelyn Porter, Kathleen Essinger, Lois Tilton, Marilyn Carron, Anthony Mastriani, Bessie Zazanis, Bruce Billman, Richard Fullerton, Donna Jean Lee, Sherry Plonka, Barbara Campbell, Lawrence Haims, and Nancy Lumley.

These sophomores will be initiated next fall into Senatus Romanus and their names will be entered in the roster of a club whose past members now are well known in business and professional circles in this and many other communities.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

THE IMPORTANT JOBS

"Okay, Mary, you do the dusting while I arrange the flowers." "Here, Son, if you want to help Dad, pick up the nails I drop while I'm fixing this shelf." "You're not old enough to fix that electric light cord. Better let me do it."

Think for a moment what we parents are saying to children when we talk with them in these ways. We either don't trust them with important jobs or we want to keep the more interesting tasks for ourselves. We can hardly expect the child to be enthusiastic when we dump the dull and tedious jobs around the house in his lap.

Though it may take a little longer and require some supervision from us, there's no reason why Mary shouldn't have her turn at arranging flowers, Junior get his chance to do some nailing and Sonny try his hand at repairing the light cord. Given such opportunities now and again, our youngsters won't mind helping with the routine jobs. It's only when they always get the humdrum tasks that they resist helping around the house.

Government Price Fixing Is Discussed By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1950—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 2. —Can anyone tell me why, in the name of common sense, our government has bought and stored away 114,000,000 pounds of butter last year at a cost to you and me of better than $78,000,000?

The Farmers' Cry

The cry has gone up from farmers across the land that people's eating habits are changing. They say folks aren't eating as much as they used to. Obviously not—they can't afford to. But why not? Because the economic medicine men in Washington have pushed the price so high that substitutes have to be bought. The family physician may tell you that vitamin-reinforced margarine is just as nutritious as butter, but abolish your phoney controls on price and you will see which spread the people really prefer! They prefer good creamery butter.

Roger W. Babson

Last year, for example, we spread only 1½ billion pounds of butter as against 2¼ billion pounds pre-war. But still the farmers cry in their churns over the sharp increases in margarine sales—from 30 million pounds pre-war to nearly 1,000 million pounds las year. Yet they let the department of agriculture continue turning their churns! If the boys in the agriculture department keep on, they will churn butter producers right out of business. And I say this as a boy brought up on a dairy farm who has both milked cows and delivered milk.

We Want Golden Butter

But this isn't the end of the sad tale. People cannot afford to pay current prices for butter. Hence, consumption falls off. The government buys mountains of the stuff to maintain high prices. So the dairy farmers go merrily on churning out more and more spread for no one to buy; but for Uncle Sam to store away, and for you and me to pay for the privilege of not using.

What's the government going to do with all the golden butter bricks? Who knows? Recently they have been trying to give them to relief agencies, schools and so forth. But takers are few because they haven't the kind of money it takes to pay transportation charges especially when a good substitute answers the purpose. Anyway, who wants rancid butter? To my way of thinking, not only the butter, but the whole phoney system is rancid.

Action and Reaction

This is but one illustration of the system of false economics in vogue in this country today. You just can't tamper for long with the law of supply and demand before it will boomerang. Newton's law of action and reaction also apply here as aptly today as 200 years ago. Ostrich economics (the head in the sand variety) is due for a terribly rude awakening some day.

Yet, our President is urging other spending programs like the butter program that could run up a debt of nearly $15,000,000,000 in three years. Projects requiring huge outlays of public money—when business is at near peak performance—will lead some day to economic disaster. If we must prime the pump in this fashion in good times, what can the soothsayers possibly have in store for us in hard times? The awful consequences of this kind of reckless spending ought to be taught by all high school teachers in their classes. The harsh object lessons of Great Britain offer excellent source of material.

Unemployment Is Rising

Unemployment is currently and steadily rising. Even Leon Keyerling suggests we may have as many as 12,000,000 jobless by 1954. I wonder if Mr. Keyserling sees the connection between a mountain of butter and the mounting unemployment.

As long as business is stifled by an increasing tax burden to hold up prices there just isn't venture capital sufficient to create and expand business.

57 LICENSES REVOKED

HARRISBURG—In the week ending May 5, the Bureau of Highway Safety withdrew the cards of 571 drivers. Of this number 57 were revoked and 514 suspended. Operating privileges were restored to 419.

EAST GERMAN 'MILITARY FORCE' MARCH

—Acme Telephoto

BERLIN, GERMANY—Formations of East German People's police, whom the western powers have called a "military force", march past reviewing stand in Lustgarten square during the Communist youth demonstration. They differed from the Nazi Horde by lacking the goose step.

ROYAL FILMS

LONDON—(INS)—The 12-year-old Marquis of Lorne, son and heir of the jovial Duke of Argyll, has gone into the movie business. Ian, who attends the Inversary, Scotland grammar school, discovered that his friends could not afford the bus fare to the nearest cinema some 26 miles away. Ian had a "man-to-man" talk with his father which resulted in the annex to a local tearoom being fixed up as a cinema. The young marquis helps work the projector and with his friends chooses the film. Favorite films are westerns and pie-slinging comedies.

June Grand Jury To Open Monday

Short Term Seen For Criminal Court

Monday morning, June 5, the June session of the Lawrence County Grand Jury will open, with the probabilities that it will have a restricted list of bills of indictment to consider.

Thus far there is but one major case listed, an involuntary manslaughter case arising out of a highway fatality.

If the June term of criminal court follows the usual pattern it will be a short term. As a rule most of the cases end in pleas.

American Pilot Seized By Reds Safe In Hong Kong

HONG KONG, June 2.—(INS)—An American pilot of the Central Air Transport Company in China who was seized by Chinese Communists last December was safe in Hong Kong Thursday.

The pilot, James E. McGovern, of Elizabeth, N. J., was released yesterday at the Hong Kong border.

McGovern was taken into custody by the Communists when he made a forced landing in Kwangsi Province. The airline planes have been taken over by the Communists who now control the Chinese mainland.

The pilot said he was well treated while in custody despite the fact he has lost 75 pounds since last December. McGovern said he spent most of his detention in a Nanning hotel.

McGovern, covered with a heavy beard and with his thick, curly hair almost reaching his shoulders, said he was allowed only three walks during his five months' captivity. He said four guards accompanied him on his strolls. He related:

"I was not allowed out much and no news reached me. So it was a case of boredom".

Senate Crime Group Seeks More Records

By GLENN M. GREEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(INS)—The senate crime investigating committee asked President Truman Thursday for executive orders to pry loose hard-to-get government department records.

The crime hunters will also tell the president how they expect to conduct their nationwide probe of organized crime and will request the assistance of such key government agencies as the department of justice and the treasury department.

Those two departments are expected to face some embarrassing questions from the committee before it finishes its inquiry.

The group already has dug up sufficient evidence to show that there is an interstate tie-up of gambling interests from New York and New Jersey to Florida and California.

The justice department previously said it had "no evidence" that any such syndicate exists.

The committee also has information that some big shot racketeers evaded income tax reductions in one way or another.

But the committee must obtain some confidential government records from many federal agencies if it hopes to complete its picture of interstate crime. Among these are income tax returns.

To do that legally it must have Mr. Truman's order for the agencies to turn over those records.

JUNE FOODS

NEW YORK — (I N S) — Rising temperatures this month will mean a rising desire for refreshing, ice-cold milk—and there will be plenty for all comers, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Listing foods likely to be in good supply during June, the Department puts dairy foods, including wholesome fluid milk, butter, cheese, cottage cheese, and other foods, right at the top of the list. Items on the USDA list of plentifuls are usually low-priced, and suggest a variety of good buys for the consumer.

Expect More Than 47,000 Boy Scouts At 1950 Jamboree

HARRISBURG, June 2.—(INS)—When more than 47,000 Boy Scouts encamp at Valley Forge park between June 30 and July 5 for their international jamboree the site will have a larger population than the capital cities of 20 states.

Forests and Waters Secretary M. F. Draemel said that because of the tent city's size, use of tourist camp sites at the park will be restricted to one night during the jamboree.

CREPE-SOLED SHOES

PORTLAND, Ore. — (INS)—A Reed college physics prof says if girls want to transform a dull boy friend into a real live wire they should get him to buy crepe-soled shoes. The shoes with the bouncy bottoms can build up quite a large charge from friction with carpets and floor. It remains in the wearer's body since his rubber underpinnings insulate him. This static electricity has to go somewhere and it will if anyone touches that crepe-soled character—right down through the metal nails of their shoes. A shocking situation.

Armed West German Police Force Now Under Consideration

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(INS)—The state department revealed today that establishment of an armed West German federal police force is under consideration.

The department spokesman, Michael McDermott, made this information available following reports from London that the big three foreign ministers had decided to establish a force of 5,000 men furnished with light arms, including automatic weapons.

McDermott said the matter was considered at the request of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer who had made a request for a force of 25,000 central force in letters sent to Washington, London and Paris.

The three foreign ministers in London, McDermott said, felt they did not have sufficient data and information to reach a decision on the request. He said:

"The matter was therefore referred to the high commissioners for Germany for study and discussions with the Germans."

Some Encouraging Results From New Drug Are Reported

CHICAGO, June 2—(INS)—Encouraging results were reported today in the treatment of children suffering from cerebral palsy by use of a new synthetic drug which relaxes tensed, jerking muscles.

Dr. Charles H. Frantz, of Grand Rapids, Mich., noted in the current issue of the journal of the American Medical Association that the new drug, known as tolserol, gave beneficial results in 14 of 16 cases.

All children helped had cerebral palsy manifestations known as athetosis—constant, perking movements of the hands and feet.

Lack of muscle control in this disease is due to an injury to the brain suffering during difficult births.

Dr. Frantz said that children with spastic paralysis—in which the limbs are rigid—were not helped by the drug.

Traffic Accident Fatalities Reported Over Three Months

HARRISBURG, June 2—(INS)—Traffic accidents were responsible for the deaths of 328 motorists and 134 pedestrians in Pennsylvania during the first quarter of 1950, the state highway safety bureau reported today.

Rural highway deaths totaled 182 for the period, same as last year, while urban traffic deaths increased from 144 in the first quarter of 1949 to 146 in 1950.

Pedestrian deaths in rural areas decreased from 76 in the first quarter of 1949 to 41 in 1950. Urban pedestrian deaths totaled 93 for the period, one less than in the same time last year.

Speed was blamed for 25 more lives being lost in multi-fatal accidents from January to March of this year than in a similar period last year.

Senate Committee Votes To Extend Rent Controls

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(INS)—The Senate banking committee today approved, eight to five, a compromise bill to extend federal rent controls until December 31 and then continue them only in localities which vote for rent curbs.

The measure, drafted by Rep. Spence (D) Ky., already has been approved by the House banking committee and is slated for House action during the week of June 12.

The present rent control law expires June 30.

Heavy Wind Does Damage In City

Considerable damage was done about the city by a small twister which swept over the district about 6:45 p. m. Thursday, which accompanied a rain storm which passed around north of the city.

A large tree was blown down on the Highland school grounds and is said to have narrowly missed Mrs. J. G. Anderson of Highland avenue, who was passing in her auto at the time.

City firemen were called to 116 East Garfield avenue when the antenna of a television set was blown down, pulling over part of the chimney. A number of other television antennas throughout the city were twistetd and warped by the wind, and limbs were blown off many trees.

Truck Driver Is Burned To Death

CARLISLE, Pa., June 2.—(INS)—State police today were trying to establish further the identity of a truck driver who was burned beyond recognition when his machine crashed into an oil tank truck 18 miles west of Carlisle on the Pennsylvania turnpike.

Police said a dog tag found near the charred wreckage shortly after the accident last night bore the name of Oscar Kidd, Jr.

Officers believe the driver fell asleep before striking the oil truck.

Robert Hale of Columbus, O., driver of the tanker, escaped injury.

The Baltimore family founded the colony of Maryland and served as its proprietors for seven generations.

FARMER TAKES A WIFE—FROM 500

HONEYMOONING IN CHICAGO are Walter Malaj, 29, a farmer of Wanatah, Ind., and Jacklyn Ritersdorf, a model. Last January Malaj, in a newspaper story, declared he was lonesome living on a farm with his father. He received 500 letters from girls willing to share his plight. But Jacklyn, whom he had met at a New Year's party, wrote the most convincing one, and their romance blossomed. (International Soundphoto)

NURSERY SCHOOL

WASHINGTON — (INS) — A group of Washington mothers are going to nursery school to learn how to turn their children's destructive activities into creative channels. The women are getting their pointers on child psychology from a father who has successfully diverted his own children's impulses to paint the walls with lipstick and decorate the baseboards with toothpaste. The instructor is Michael Fooner, former member of the Presidential Committee on Higher Education. He conducts his classes in a local play center.

Only two men, who have been president of the United States—Herbert Hoover and Harry S. Truman—are living.

The first opening of lands to white settlement in what is now the state of Oklahoma occurred on April 22, 1889.

GRAND SLAM HOMER

STAN ZEDALIS

It is not often a pitcher gets a home run, and it is very rare when a pitcher hits a grand slam homer, but young blonde good looking Stan Zedalis, veteran Senators right-hander did it last night in the big ten-run first inning of the opening game, of the twin-bill with Erie, a sock of 375 feet, that cleared the left-field wall, to score Dondero, Horne and Dunterman ahead of him. New Castle won 10-0, and Zedalis got credit for his 5th win of the year, his lost record is one.

Zedalis And Wagner Rack Up Hurling Wins, Senators Now Lead By Three Games

The New Castle Senators today find themselves with a three-game lead in the "Mad-Atlantic" league race, by virtue of a pair of wins 10-0, and 3-2, over the Erie Sailors last night at Flaherty Memorial Field.

Tonight, The Senators will take on the troublesome Tars in the final game of the three-game series. It took ten innings in the night-cap for the local favorites to subdue the "hot" Sailors who had won 9 out of their last 10 games before arriving here. The game tonight starts at 8 o'clock.

Zedalis Hits Grand Slam Homer

Stan Zedalis, the blond Orlando, Florida hurler, not only hung up his fifth pitching win of the year in the first game, against one defeat, but also featured the big first-inning 10 run attack by slamming a terrific homer over the left field wall, 375 feet with the bases full. Zedalis hurled a steady well-pitched five-hitter.

The veteran Frank Wagner, making his first start of the 1950 season had to travel ten-heats in the nightcap, but did a swell job, allowing but eight hits, and fanning eight batters. It was his second win, having turned in a relief job for a win last week, after rejoining The Senators following a three-week illness.

Eikenberg Has Broken Finger

New Castle presented a somewhat patchup lineup due to the broken finger suffered by the sensational George Eikenberg, in the game at Youngstown Tuesday evening. "Eik" started the first game, but retired in the early innings in favor of young Dick Ackerman, who filled the shortstop bill very nicely, also asserting himself at bat as usual.

Oil City beat Niagara Falls 3-0, and Butler edged Youngstown 10-9, but both lost ground as a result of The Senators' two wins over The Gobs.

Walks In Winning Run

Young Bill Ciske, the Erie ace right-hander with a 3 and 1 record until last night, was the victim of his own wildness in the last of the tenth inning, walking three consecutive men, Dondero, Horne and finally Vizzini, to give New Castle it's big third run, enough to win 3-2, breaking up a great pitching duel.

The Senators drew a total of 20 walks for the two games. Landry issued 3, Peters his successor in the first game 9, Ciske 8 in the after-piece. On the other hand Zedalis had fine control, allowing but one walk, and Wagner walked four. New Castle drew seven walks in the big ten-run first game opening inning.

Dick Ackerman led the New Castle team in hitting in the twin bill, getting three for three in the first game and one for three in the night game, boosting his average above the .300 mark. Danny Dondero, the sparkling young second sacker, with three hits in five trips also fattened his batting average, as young Johnny Vizzini with two hits for four trips.

Zedalis Gets Revenge

Eddie Kestler and "Corny" Nolan led the Erie Sailors at bat for the twin bill. Erie, generally a heavy hitting club, found Zedalis and Wagner hard to solve. Zedalis go his revenge on Erie for the 2 to 1 defeat handed him at Erie recently.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

DURING AN OPEN discussion at a Farmer-Sportsmen meeting, held recently in Mercer, a farmer submitted an idea which, according to Seth Myers, secretary, northwest division, State Federation of Sportsmen's clubs, has merit. The farmer explained how the Grange units put their ideas into resolutions, and send them through their county grange to the state grange for study and support. If upheld the resolution is then presented to the proper authority for consideration and adoption. Whether the authority be a state department or the general assembly, the idea is likely to be given careful consideration when it has the backing of the organized farmers of the entire state. The speaker then referred to the procedure followed by the organized sportsmen. It is exactly the same. A sportsman club sends an idea to its county council, and when approved, it follows through its division to the state federation. If passed by the state body it is turned over to the authority for which it was intended. The plan is, that when a great many of the resolutions of either organization affects the interests of the other, the two should cooperate more closely. And, to this Myers asks "Why shouldn't we?" If a resolution should come to the attention of the lawmakers with the full backing of both organizatoins it would carry considerable weight. The Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs represents more than a million hunting and fishing license buyers. The Grange represents all of the farmers of the state; probably more than twice that number. The plan would be to exchange resolutions between the two organizations, starting at the bottom of both. That is, resolutions between the two organizations, starting at the bottom of both. That is, resolutions of mutual interest. It goes without saying, the fish and game commissions would be duty bound to support any plan backed by both of these groups with which they are set up to cooperate. The lawmakers and other State Departments would hardly dare attempt to over-rule the constructive resolutions backed by such a united force.

Ben Hogan Thinks Jim Demaret Will Win National Open

MERION, Pa., June 2.—(INS)—Jim Demaret was singled out today by bantam Ben Hogan as the man to beat in the National Open golf championship next week at the Merion course.

Although Hogan did not rule himself out as a repeat winner in this year's golden jubilee tourney, he figures the field will have to keep a sharp lookout for his fellow Texan, whom he thinks has a better chance of winning than Sammy Snead, another popular choice.

The little man of golfing set the Open record two years ago at Los Angeles with a card of 276. He made a practice round of the Merion course yesterday in "about par," but said the links are too wet from rain now to judge how the play should go next week.

Tommy Henrich Okayed By 'Doc'

BALTIMORE, June 2.—(INS)—Tommy Henrich, star outfielder and first baseman for the New York Yankees, was told today that he may play baseball as much as he wants despite a troublesome left knee.

Henrich was examined at Johns Hopkins hospital by George Bennett, who has treated Joe DiMaggio and other players. Bennett examined Henrich's knee six weeks ago and told him to come back if it continued to trouble him.

St. Mary's Wins In Legion League

St. Mary's defeated Croton 12-4 Thursday night in the American Legion junior league at Croton field. Quinn went all the way for the win. Cummings was charged with the loss.

Monday evening Sunset defeated St. Margarets.

Games scheduled for tonight are:

Seals at Sunset at Washington field.

Fees at Croton at Cascade field.

St. Margarets at Junior Herd at Deshon field.

St. Mary's at Lepores at P. & L. E. field.

Leahy Denies Quitting Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 2.—(INS)—Football coach Frank Leahy, who led Notre Dame through four consecutive seasons, has decisively spiked a report that he is leaving the Irish to coach the professional Los Angeles Rams.

In a telephone conversation from New York, Leahy declared:

"I have definitely decided that all of my coaching will be done at Notre Dame. I have never considered coaching the Los Angeles Rams and I won't in the future."

Leahy's statement was made in an effort to stifle recurring reports that he is leaving his post. One such report was published in Detroit yesterday.

Two years of on-the-job training have made Roy Smalley of the Chicago Cubs a Major League shortstop. Smalley has come a long way since 1948 when he first became a regular at the age of 22 and with only one complete season in organized baseball behind him.

New York Stocks

Stock Market Is Irregular

NEW YORK, June 2.—(INS)—The stock market drifted irregularly lower today with pressure on rail issues on unsettling influence.

It was the sixth session of decline for the carriers in the last seven days and reflected investor nervousness over the outcome of pending wage increase demands. Several of the rails touched new 1950 lows, including Norfolk and Western which was off ½ at 45 and Chesapeake and Ohio down ⅜ at 26⅝. Pennsylvania was unchanged at its previous bottom of 16¼; Western Maryland was off ½ at 14¾; New York Central off ¼ at 13¼, and Southern Pacific off ⅛ at 55.

U. S. Steel was a firm spot in the industrial list, edging up ¼ to 33⅜. General Motors eased ⅜ to 90⅛; Allied Chemical was off ½ at 254, and Bethlehem Steel was unchanged at 37½.

Standard of New Jersey and Ohio were a shade higher in the oils.

Televisions held steady with Radio Corporation up ⅛ at 20⅝; Zenith unchanged at 57½, and Emerson unchanged at 39⅜.

Curb stocks were mixed. Electric Bond and Share was off ⅛ Kaiser Frazer up ⅛ and Ford of Canada down ½.

The bond market was irregular with most rail issues easier.

The center of events will be the Bessemer high school athletic field with a gala dance planned as an opening event for Monday evening, July 3.

Starting at 2 p. m. on July 4, a gigantic parade has been planned in the community, with the Perry S. Gaston Post band of New Castle and a national champion drum and bugle corps from Youngstown participating, along with other musical aggregations and groups.

Program Of Sports

A great program of sports has been announced for the afternoon when games will be provided for the kiddies and other events planned for the adults. A band concert has been planned at 7:30 p. m. by the Perry Gaston post band. A dance is planned in evening starting at 9 o'clock.

THANK YOU NOTES FOR GIFTS

Question: I have personally thanked a friend for the wedding gift she sent me. Must I also write her a note?

Answer: Even though you have personally thanked her, you should write her a note along with your other "thank you" letters. She might feel slighted if she discovered that you had sent others letters and had neglected her.

Question: When should thank-you notes for bon voyage gifts be sent? Must they be written while on the trip or after the voyager returns?

Answer: You must not wait until after you return to attend to such correspondence. These notes should be written during your voyage, since after you have arrived at your destination, you will no doubt be so busy that this duty might be neglected or forgotten.

Question: What pieces should I place on my sideboard?

Answer: Do not overburden your sideboard with silver, especially if yours is a small, simply furnished room. If you have silver, place a few pieces on the sideboard and the remainder on your serving table and china closet. It is no longer fashionable to make a silver display rack of your sideboard. If you have no silver, place a glass bowl in the center and a matching candlestick on either side.

Question: What is the difference between canapes and hors d'oeuvres?

Answer: There is no difference. A canape is hors d'oeuvre.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly send personal replies to questions from readers inclosing stamped, addressed envelopes.
